

Excessive Lawsuits are Driving Up Insurance Costs

Awareness

80.5% of consumers believe the legal system is used in ways that unfairly drive up insurance costs.

40% are unfamiliar with “third-party litigation funding,” a growing practice where outside investors finance lawsuits for profit.

Top Concerns

64.3%

say they're concerned about how excessive lawsuits increase their premiums.

8 in 10

believe their premiums would increase due to excessive lawsuits, even if they have never filed a claim themselves.

Call to Action

89.7%

of consumers say it's important to reduce unnecessary lawsuits to help control insurance costs.

84.3%

say they would support reforms if they knew certain legal practices were making their insurance more expensive.

Who should take the lead on addressing the issue?*

54.8%

State & Federal Government

33.6% Insurance Companies

32.6% Courts System

*Respondents could select up to two answers, so total is over 100%

FULL TOOLKIT ↓

www.trustedchoice.independentagent.com/legal-system-abuse

JOIN THE BIG "I" TODAY

independentagent.com/belong

BIG i